Member-at-Large, ISA Feminist Theory and Gender Studies Section, 2007-2009

- Elected position.

EDUCATION LEADERSHIP

Deputy Head of School (Learning & Teaching), School of Social Sciences, UNSW Sydney, July 2012-June 2017

- The responsibilities of the Deputy Head of School (Learning & Teaching) relate primarily to the management of the portfolio of learning and teaching activities, including: developing learning and teaching vision and strategy in the School; ensuring quality of student experience; upholding standards of academic integrity; representing the School on University and Faculty level committees; chairing the School Learning & Teaching Committee; and advising/deputising for Head of School where needed.

Member, Strategic Task Group, UNSW Strategic Objective: A distinctive UNSW model for delivering educational excellence, UNSW Sydney, 2015

- As part of the consultation process on the development of the 2025 UNSW strategy, I was selected to serve as part of the strategic task group focussed on 'a distinctive UNSW model for delivering educational excellence'. This involved synthesising University-wide feedback from individuals and academic units, identifying priority interventions, and developing evaluation mechanisms to determine progress against the chosen objectives.

Panellist, Monash University BA (Global) Review, 2013

- The review panel evaluates a self-review document, meets with interested parties, receives submissions and requests for interviews, and provides a final report that summarises the key findings of the review and provides a prioritised list of recommendations. I served as a senior academic (external).

School Liaison Officer on Assessment Project, UNSW Sydney, 2011-2012

- The UNSW Assessment Project has two goals: to find ways to achieve greater efficiency in the overall assessment process; and in doing so to achieve a second goal of enhanced educational integrity in the assessment process. I am responsible for managing the collection of data on assessment practices with the School, compiling a report for discussion and for identifying performance enhancement measures to facilitate learning-oriented assessment.

Member, University of Birmingham Educational Enhancement Group Feedback on Assessment Working Group, 2010

- I was nominated by the College of Social Sciences' Director of Education to participate in the activities of a working group addressing the issue of feedback on assessment. Terms of reference included identifying commonalities in best practice across the University and identifying methods of dissemination of best practice.

Member, University of Birmingham Educational Enhancement Group Module Evaluation Working Group, 2010

- I was nominated by the College of Social Sciences' Director of Quality Assurance and Enhancement to participate in the activities of a Task-and-Finish working group addressing the issue of module evaluation. Terms of reference included identifying commonalities in best practice across the University and identifying methods of dissemination of best practice.

Head of Academic Programmes and Director of Learning and Teaching Strategy, Department of Political Science and International Studies, University of Birmingham, 2009-2010

- The HoAP/DLTS oversees all aspects of learning and teaching at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels, is responsible for the formulation and implementation of effective quality assurance mechanisms and aims to develop and promote a progressive and competitive strategic vision for learning and teaching within the Department.
