
For the workshop, Tom Pegram and I produced a full-length framing paper, which we distributed to the authors in early February 2019. We then requested each participant to produce a 4-5pp. memo responding to the framing paper and to one or more of the questions we posed for discussion at the end of the paper. The format worked very well because it meant that all the participants were familiar with the core concept of global governance through state transformation (GGST) and thus arrived at the workshop ready to discuss the issues we were keen to examine in depth. Furthermore, because the memos were kept short, most of the participants read all of them too.

At the workshop, because all the participants read our paper and the memos, we were able to keep presentations very short and instead spent the time productively on discussing the ideas in the paper and the memos around the table. We had two discussants for each panel of 3 or 4 memos, which meant each contributor received two detailed sets of comments, as well as feedback from around the table. From discussions with participants, the feedback we received was that this format worked very well.

At the end of the workshop we included a session led by Prof Miles Kahler that summarised the insights gleaned from the discussions and identified areas for future research on GGST, as well as discussed future publication options. One option we are examining closely at the moment is a special issue of the Review of International Political Economy. Tom and I are also investigating opportunities in our institutions and elsewhere for additional funding to hold a second workshop in London within the next 12 months.

We would like to thank the ISA for funding our workshop. We had a productive and enjoyable day!

Shahar Hameiri
Global Governance Through State Transformation
Workshop Schedule

Date: 26 March 2019
Venue: Carmichael Room, Hilton Toronto, 145 Richmond St W, Toronto

9:10-9:30
Welcome & introductions, Shahar Hameiri, University of Queensland, and Tom Pegram, UCL

09:30-11:00. Panel 1: GGST: Conceptual, Theoretical and Methodological Innovation
Discussants:
  - Tom Chodor, Monash University
  - Yeling Tan, University of Oregon

Presenters:
  - Phil Cerny, CUNY
  - Virginia Haufler, University of Maryland
  - Susan K. Sell, Australian National University

11:00-11:15. Coffee break

11:15-13:00. Panel 2: Assessing the Practical and Normative Implications of GGST as a Response to Multilateral Gridlock
Discussants:
  - Miles Kahler, American University
  - Shahar Hameiri, University of Queensland

Presenters:
  - Tom Chodor, Monash University
  - Sophie Harman, Queen Mary University of London
  - Makiko Nishitani, Kobe University
  - Yeling Tan, University of Oregon

13:00-14:00. Lunch

14:00-15:30. Panel 3: Empirically Capturing GGST Impact on Public Policy Outcomes
Discussants:
  - Tom Pegram, University College London
- Susan K. Sell, Australian National University

Presenters:
- Ben Cashore, Yale University, and Sébastien Jodoin, McGill University
- Cora Lacatus, Edinburgh University
- Abraham Newman, Georgetown University

15:30-16:00. Coffee break

16:00-17:00. Closing Reflections

19:00. Dinner for workshop participants at The Cactus Club Cafe