The Global Rise of Populism
Working Group
ISA Annual Convention, Baltimore 2017

Working Group Coordinators

David B. Macdonald

David B. Macdonald is Professor of Political Science at the University of Guelph, Canada. He specializes in Comparative Indigenous Politics in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the United States as well as US and New Zealand foreign policy. His work has been published in journals such as Canadian Journal of Political Science, Canadian Journal of Sociology, Journal of Human Rights, Third World Quarterly and Journal of Genocide Research. He is the co-editor, most recently, of The Bush Leadership, the Power of Ideas, and the War on Terror (Ashgate, 2012, with Dirk Nabers and Robert Patman) and Europe in its Own Eyes, Europe in the Eyes of the Other (Wilfried Laurier University Press, 2014, with Mary DeCoste). His most recent books are Thinking History, Fighting Evil: Neoconservatives and the Perils of Historical Analogy in American Politics (Rowman & Littlefield, 2009) and Introduction to Politics (Oxford University Press, 2012, with Robert Garner, Peter Ferdinand and Stephanie Lawson).

Dirk Nabers

Dirk Nabers is Professor of International Political Sociology at Kiel University, Germany. Previously, he has been Academic Director of the Hamburg International Graduate School for the Study of Regional Powers and Senior Research Fellow at the German Institute of Global and Area Studies, Germany. He specializes in poststructuralism and sociology in International Relations. His work has appeared in journals such as Foreign Policy Analysis, Review of International Studies and Global Society. He is the co-editor, among others, of Regional Powers and Regional Orders (Routledge, 2011, with Nadine Godehardt) and of The Bush Leadership, the Power of Ideas, and the War on Terror (Ashgate, 2012, with David Bruce MacDonald and Robert Patman). His most recent book is A Poststructuralist Discourse Theory of Global Politics (Palgrave Macmillan, 2015).

Frank A. Stengel

Frank A. Stengel is a Research Fellow at Kiel University, Germany. He has been a PhD Fellow at the Bremen International Graduate School of Social Sciences and a research officer at the University of Bremen, Germany. He focuses on German foreign and security policy and critical IR theory. His work has been published in International Peacekeeping and Journal of International Relations and Development. He is a member of the scientific network “Understanding Visuality in Global Politics,” funded by the German Research Council (DFG).